On the 9th Instant, circular Orders from the Government were sent to their Governors and Commissaries, to countermand all their Troops posted upon the Borders of the State, and to disarm their Militia. The Republick has disburfed, it is said, three Millions of Crowns on Account of the Contribution demanded, and is to maintain, at the Rate of Six Pence per Day, each of the Austrian Soldiers during their Stay in that State, and to pay the Officers in Proportion according to their Rank. Orders have also been given to receive and treat the Austrians as Friends, as likewise the English, should they present themselves upon their Coasts; and on the 10th Mess. Cattaneo, Gavotti, Lomellini, and Franzoni, four Genoese principal Noblemen, set out for the Court of Vienna as Deputies from the Senate, to implore the Clemency and Mercy of the Empress Queen. On the 7th Prince Lichtenstein set out for the Court of Vienna, to represent by Word of Mouth to the Empress, the Situation of Affairs in Italy, and to receive the necessary Instructions thereupon. Marshal Botta continues his Head Quarters at St. Pierre d'Arena. The King of Sardinia was on the 14th at Spotorno: He has employed his Troops, together with his Gallies, assisted by his Britannick Majesty's Squadron, commanded by Commodore Townshend, to harrass the Enemy on their March along the Sea Coast of Villa Franca and Nice, and has obliged them to retire towards the Mountains, where, it it said, they have halted in Expectation of a Succour. Two Battalions of Sardinian Troops had blocked up the Castles of Finale and Savona; and ten Battalions out of the Austrian Army, under the Command of M. Gorani, were in full March to join as many of the King of Sardinia, in order to march in

The Court of Naples for ſome Time has laid an Embargo on all Veſſels in the Ports of that State, with a Deſign to ſend them to the Coaſts of Genoa to take the Neapolitan Troops on Board, in order to carry them back to Naples; but by the Accounts we have had, the French have obliged the Neapolitan Troops to march with them, and they are thought by this Time to be got into Provence.

THURSDAY October 9, 1746.

At the Camp of Grondza, Oct. 9, N. S.

THE Paſſage of the Jaar was effected the 7th Inſtant. The Army marched at Four in the Morning in eight Columns, the Artillery making the 9th. This March was made ſo near the Enemy, that we gave them a fair Opportunity of attacking what Part of the Army they pleaſed, and Meaſures were taken to give them a good Reception. Sir John Ligonier led the left Wing of the Horſe, and after they were paſſed, he remained with the Prince of Lorrain and the Marſhal at the Head of the Defilé, till the Rear Guard and every thing was paſſed without ſeeing an Enemy, tho' they heard the Alarm and the General Beat in their Camp. This being done, they went towards the Left to ſee the Poſition of our new Camp. During which Time, the Enemy having poſted Batteries where our Left was before, and alſo on the riſing Grounds on this Side of the Jaar over-againſt the Prince of Waldeck's old Camp, ſeven Brigades of their Foot appeared on the riſing Grounds, as alſo about 50 or 60 Squadrons of Horſe, and all their Light Troops. The Cannonade then began, and was very hot on both Sides. The French were beginning to paſs the River, and to form upon the riſing Ground where the Dutch were encamped in the Morning. The Prince and Marſhal Bathiani being come up with the eight Battalions and eight Squadrons commanded by Lieutenant General Drukleben, made ſuch a Diſpoſition, and gave ſuch Orders, that though our Irregulars were a little roughly handled, being but few in Number, what had paſſed of the French was immediately attacked, broken, and beaten back into the Ravine. In the mean time our Army was ordered to be under Arms, and lay ſo all Night; the Enemy retired about Midnight, and Yeſterday Morning we encamped. This Affair has coſt us about 350 Men; and the Enemy, who were repulſed, double the Number. The Hanoverian Troops have loſt ſome few Officers, the Heſſians more Men in Proportion, and the Engliſh very few. Johnſon's Regiment petitioned to attack the Enemy, and did it with ſo good a Countenance that they got great Reputation. There is not yet any Liſt of the killed and wounded. Count Clermont joined Marſhal Saxe Yeſterday, ſo that they are now in their full Force, and are reckoned to amount to 198 Battalions. The three Engliſh Battalions under the Command of Brigadier General Houghton, are to be this Day at Maeſtricht. Two Bavarian Battalions arrived Yeſterday.

From the Camp at Ambie near Maeſtricht, October 12, N. S. Count Clermont having joined the Grand Army under Marſhal Saxe upon the 9th, the Enemy made a Motion upon the 10th, and paſſed the Jaar that Afternoon with their whole Force. This Motion having convinced us that their Intention was to attack us, our heavy Baggage was that Night ſent to Maeſtricht; Orders were given for the Foot to lie with their Accoutrements on, the Horſe to be ſaddled, and the whole Army to be under Arms an Hour before Day. The Diſpoſitions were made at Prince Charles's Quarters for receiving the Enemy by the Prince and Marſhal Bathiani, with great Skill and Judgment, and every Perſon being at his Poſt, early the next Morning we perceived the Enemy in the Plain, marching towards us, their Foot being formed into three Columns, with a large Train of Artillery at the Head of each Column.

Our Right was extended upon a Plain half a Mile beyond Grondza, having the Villages of Endiſt, Sling and Fexhe in their Front, which they occupied with 12 Battalions. Betwixt the laſt Village and Liers was a Plain, and this was in Front of the Hannoverian Infantry. In Front of the Britiſh and Heſſian Foot was the Village of Liers: In Front of the Hannoverian Cavalry was that of Warem, and betwixt the Scotch Grays and the Left of the Dutch Line was the Village of Roucoux. Major General Zaſtrow, with two Britiſh, four Hannoverian, and two Heſſian Battalions, having Brigadier Douglaſs under him, was ordered to defend theſe three laſt Villages, Prince Waldeck, who was to have defended that of Roucoux, having been obliged to poſt a great Detachment in the Suburbs of Liege, upon Intelligence that the French deſigned to take Poſt there that Night. The Prince of Heſſe and General Howard, with the Foot that remained, were to endeavour to ſupport theſe three Villages, and the Cavalry to fall upon any of the French Horſe, that might attempt to paſs betwixt them, or as much as poſſible to protect our Flank to the Dutch.

The Enemy in three Colums was by this Time advanced ſo near, that three Batteries, which we had erected, began to play upon them. They immediately attacked Prince Waldeck's Left with great Fury, but were repulſed ſeveral Times with extraordinary Bravery by that Prince and the Troops under him. The Scotch Brigade particularly behaved extremely well: They were however overpowered by Numbers, and forced to give Way after a very gallant Defence. Our three Villages were at the ſame Time attacked by
